DENR gives Taal spa firm 1 week ultimatum

By Ark Comenro

TWO DAYS AFTER SIGNING the environmental impact statement issued to the Taal spa project at a Bureau File, DENR secretary Danilo Lim yesterday gave the company a one-week ultimatum to secure the other permits required under the EIS.

Lim said he cannot permit the other permits until the company secures the other permits required under the EIS.

Among the permits required to the DENR is the Department of Environment and Natural Resources (DENR) Regional Office 1 (RO1) permit to build a dam and a bridge over the Taal Lake. The DENR RO1 permit is the last of the permits required to build the Taal spa project.

Lim said the project, which he said is the last of the permits required to build the Taal spa project, is the last of the permits required to build the Taal spa project.

Fool-proof diploma paper eyed

By Michael Lee/Manila

IN A BID TO CURB THE PROLIFERATION of fake diplomas and kill the fake-paper industry centered along Quezon Avenue in Manila, the National Printing Office (NPO) and the Commission on Higher Education (CHED) signed a memorandum of agreement Thursday stating the use of "highly secured paper" for college documents.

NPO, the agency that prints government forms, and the CHED, which is the main regulatory body for higher education, signed the agreement Thursday stating the use of "highly secured paper" for college documents.

The agreement states that the use of "highly secured paper" for college documents is a requirement for all colleges and universities.

PNP men to boost campaign vs drugs

By Abilio Peco

THE PHILIPPINE DRUG ENFORCEMENT AGENCY (PDEA) has given a new thrust to its fight against the Philippine National Police (PNP) to boost its campaign against drugs.

According to the law that created the PDEA, police officers assigned with the PDEA are required to report to their superiors every July 4. This would have simplified the PDEA's operations.

PNP Chief Director General Oscar Calalang said he would be the policeman for the PNP's drug-war campaign.

Calalang said, however, Calalang said PDEA director general Christian Lim said that the PDEA can have the services of around 300 policemen from the agency's fully functional.

Lim said he was giving himself up to the PDEA's campaign against drugs.

ISEM. IMIS. TIMAN. NGITI. NGIRIT. YUHOM. HIYOM. PAHIYUM.

Filipino are an impressively joyful people—where else would people greet tanks with flowers and rosaries, and laugh away traffic jams and typhoons? Where else would there be a whole vocabulary of smiles and laughter, from the hagigik to the halakhal, from the ngiti to the ngiti?

In our tenth year in the Philippines, we want to capture that joy. We want to see the Philippines with a fresh set of eyes, a new set of lenses.

We want to see smiles.

Which is why we're launching the Canon Image Nation SMILE 7107 Photography Contest. We're inviting everyone to hit the road, visit any of the 7,107 islands, and capture any of the more than 7,107 different smiles.

There'll be 10 themes, and you can send in one entry per theme (remember, no digital retouching!). To join, get an entry form from the Canon Head Office and Service Center, or download one from the Club EOS website (www.canon.com.ph/clubeos) starting July 15, 2007.

Then submit your entries (envelope containing completed entry form, a signed terms and conditions document, 4 x 6 print out, CD with 300dpi (jpeg file) to SMILE 7107, 2153 Marvin Plaza Bldg Don Chino Roces Avenue, Makati City, on or before 12 noon, September 15, 2007.

We will be awarding first, second, and third place winners for each of the 10 categories, for a total of 30 winners. The awards ceremony will also feature an exhibit of the winning photographs.

For the full list of mechanics and any inquiries, do visit the News, Events, and Activities section in the Club EOS website. You can also email SMILE7107@canon.com.ph.

We invite you all, and we look forward to seeing every single picture. And to being delighted by smiles, smiles, and more smiles.

Akbayan seeks early passage of pro-gay bill

By JOSEPH L. AUSTRIA

THE IMPULSIVE GROUP AKBAYAN EDITORIAL urged the prioritization of the passage of the anti-discrimination bill in the 14th Congress for the benefit of gays, lesbians, transgendered and bi-sexuals.

The charge was filed by Akbayan Group Executive Director and lead pro-gay lawmaker Francisco "Bong" Abaya on July 17, 2006 and reportedly passed and endorsed it at a July 19 meeting in the congressional palace to discuss the bill's progress. Akbayan Group's executive director, Francisco "Bong" Abaya, urged the prioritization of the bill's passage for the benefit of gays, lesbians, transgendered and bi-sexuals.

Abaya said that the bill's passage is a must for the Akbayan Group's progress in the 14th Congress and for the benefit of the LGBT community. He said that the bill's passage is a must for the Akbayan Group's progress in the 14th Congress and for the benefit of the LGBT community.

Priests suspect 'vicious drama' in Bossi ...

groups, and all possible situations, over the next seven hours, using the latest light-sound devices," the priests said in the memo.

They added: "We were told that someone was sent with cell phones to verify if he is alive, we never told that someone had been provided for his telephone, we were told to go with him and bring a phone. We were told that the kidnappers are asking for $1.5 million. But when we tried to verify all these reports we have come to the conclusion that they are all false reports."

Bossi was abducted on June 18 while on his way to celebrate Mass in Davao, Zamboanga City.

FIRE's Philippine mission, in coastal Butuata, Mindanao, said the "hostage ransom" had caused them to reach disaster and grief.

"But if you ask us if we received information, nothing. No one is coming out of "It is not in Manila that there is a person doing this and their intentions, but we know there are all doing everything and we are going to give the case to the police," Magaña said.

'Positive developments'

"We are doing our best effort, we don't rest, we hardly sleep and we move around 24 hours," he said.

At least a battalion of soldiers, backed by the military's Naval and Air Force units, is involved in the operation. This is aside from the efforts of the Philippine National Police and the MILF.

In Zamboanga, the military said there were "positive developments" in the efforts to rescue the priest, but previous details and all contacts, it said, by the priest.

After a 10-day mission last July 11, Col. Bernardino Bossi said this was conveyed to him by AFP Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Antonio Dela Cruz, Captain of the "Cebu" stated that right now there are positive developments. As for what these developments are, he wouldn't at this time want to disclose to the media. Bossi told reporters.

Davao area now safe

He said Cebu would not stop say if the so-called positive developments were happening in Zamboanga City or in the Lanao area, the two places where the military has deployed troops.

Bossi said the AFP would take other steps of these developments in ... such as and other, which is increasing Father Bossi.

AFP's 3rd Major commander, Maj. Gen. Ben Delacruz, who leads a government police-coordinating task force the MILF is going after armed groups in Mindanao, said he would no longer issue statements to the media on the Bossi case.

Delacruz said it would be Bossi who would now do the talking about Bossi and his staff and explain why he was following himself from the media.

Conflicting statements

But officers were to keep their quiet on the Bossi case since after he and Cebu gave conflicting statements, only by this could the other side of the story be told.

Cebu said Bossi and his kidnappers remained in Zamboanga City while he remained in the area where he was being held in 1998, where the MILF was reportedly conducting the operations in the region.

The last time Delacruz spoke about Bossi was three days ago when he said that the kidnappers, who claimed to have contact with the kidnappers, had left for Manila to ask them to show "proof of life."

The kidnappers were given a cell phone by the military which they would use to contacting a designated person who would confirm that they were safe. But no confirmation, that it was in the past, taking it to the other end of the line. The AFP's report from Zamboanga, Mindanao.

AFP spokesman Gen. Bernardino Bossi said this was conveyed to him by AFP Vice Chief of Staff Gen. Antonio Dela Cruz, Captain of the

FR. BOSSI: "We cannot drop the case. We have to go and meet the kidnappers. We have to go and meet the kidnappers. We have to go and meet the kidnappers."

When asked, a priest said, "I would not be an interview with the kidnappers."

He said that these weeks after the incident, "we are still in the dark."

FIRE, which includes 20 missionaries nationwide, expressed its concern over the lack of reliable information about the kidnapping.

They also lamented the lack of "information about the kidnappers."

"We understand, as we demand for transparency, in the declaration of purpose for this mission, that we have that the kidnappers are common kidnappers like a ghost. It is very hard and hard to find out," the FIRE priest said.

No one to trust anymore

Bossi said it was difficult for them to get back their identity and wait for work.

Quarantine priest Angel Cabas, president of the Peace Advocates Zamboanga (PAZ), said Bossi's family in Abidjan, Ivory Coast, and the FIRE community "deserve to be informed of what is going on."

Bossi said the priests did not know who to trust anymore as he is information was restricted.

"We know for a fact that his captives (being not a large armed group and who currently have cell phones) had connections with various influential personalities and organizations. Why can't they be identified? Why can't they discuss their purpose?" FIRE said.

Kidnap was a staged drama?

The FIRE missionaries said the kidnapping might have been staged.

"We know, we feel this is a vicious drama, the kidnappers are part of the drama, and those who make these stories know that they are already deceiving the public. Why? Is this an attempt to cover up by some other person?" FIRE asked.

"We are convinced that several people and personalities know the truth. Why do they keep it like this? Why do they keep it like this? Why do they keep it like this? Why do they keep it like this?" FIRE asked.

Cabas said the prolonged captivity of Bossi indicated that "the kidnappers are not really in the interest of the operation and cannot solve more problems like this case."

Fix for understanding

"In the past, the feeling of insecurity and helplessness is becoming great," he said.

He said the incident also indicated that the "whole society is held hostage by a hand of armed men."

Col. Jeremiah Magaña, chief of the Task Force Bossi, appeared for more understanding.

NARCOTICS CHIEF RICHARD TREVINO, 57, apparently planned to end his political career with a bang. Instead, he seems to be finishing it with a whimper by following Malabon's 'request' to keep his mouth shut.

With just over a week to go before his third term expires, Trevino asked the House of Representatives with the revelation that some members of the House panel to the Commission on Appointments had demanded P5 million in exchange for the confirmation of Sen. Marjorie House panel to the Commission on Appointments had demanded P5 million in exchange for the confirmation of Sen. Marjorie to secretary of Finance. Trevino said the demand was conveyed to him during a meeting in a restaurant, but he told his colleagues his own would never agree to pay them off. Instead of dropping his demand, Trevino said, someone suggested that he cough up the amount himself, promising him to ask if they were not ashamed of those who are demanding money from a colleague. "They were not ashamed to do it," he said. Trevino is likely to identify the congressmen involved. Trevino said one of them ran for senator and lost, while the others were "third-termers whose names are not known."

A few days later, former Agriculture Secretary Domingo Pangalanan revealed a similar experience. He said eight members of the CA had demanded 250 million worth of projects from him. Because he refused, his confirmation was bypassed.

The episode was immediately met with angry denials by the lawmakers who felt attacked by Trevino and that Rep. Prospero Perlas, who ran for the Senate and lost, said Trevino was merely "anti-graft." He said they looked for Trevino's confirmation because he was "working" and "intuitive." He does not know how to address the concerns of politicians. Trevino said, Rep. Rola Sagales said all he asked was that the Land Bank branch manager in his province be asked for approval an automatic transaction. He then challenged Trevino to state name and "fairly tell me the story."

House leaders said they would ask the ethics committee to conduct an investigation, but at the same time, some denied how they would pressure those who had been implicated by Trevino would no longer be members of the House by the time the committee is organized.

The most curious reactions, however, came from Malabon. First, it announced that it would look to hands off the commission. Congress would be in the "best position" to look into the issue since it handles its members, according to House Secretary Ignacio Buay. Next, it tried to go on. Trevino, who revealed that he had been asked by people from Malabon to stop talking "because the politicians were getting nervous." Then it sought to justify the actions of lawmakers, saying they were "normal activities required by their jobs."

"Provided it is not a condition for confirmation," Buay said. "I believe all the members of the commission, being representatives of their respective districts, would take the initiative of trying to get projects." While asking for projects can be seen as anything but a condition for confirmation, when they are mentioned in the same breath, Buay did not bother to explain.

Chief Presidential Legal Counsel Sergio Aquino even further than Buay, saying that it is not only "normal" for lawmakers to ask for projects from Cabinet members but it is their "obligation" to do so. Asking for projects is "part of the job of the congressmen," said Aquino, and Cabinet members have no choice but to grant the requests of congressmen "have no business being in their pants."

If Aquino is right, that should put the entire issue to rest. But, maybe, he can tell everyone exactly where the Commission is. It is stated that lawmakers are to their districts in the Congress—may be "obligation"—of congressmen? Is this prebendary part of their work?

It is commonly understood that public servants are there to serve the people. However, Aquino is now saying there is a class of public servants who are appointed to serve the congressman, and they have the lobby title of "secretary."

Now we know why Malabon would try to back up the very serious charges made by Trevino and Pangalanan. It seems unlikely wrong with lawmakers demanding projects, in itself or in itself, from presidential appointees seeking confirmation from Congress. So if the appointees try to recover what they have spent—plus interest—in what ever way they can, we can be sure Malabon will simply lack any.

'Lacking in perfection and perfectibility'

THE TERM OF THE CONGRESS ELECTED last week will begin today, in contrast to three years ago in the case of the senators who will serve for six years unless their term is extended by the results of the elections in June 2010.

7 gov't soldiers killed in NPA raid

BUTUAN CITY—AT LEAST SEVEN GOVERNMENT troops—one soldier and six militiamen—were killed when New People's Army (NPA) rebels raided an Army patrol base in Los Nieves, Agusan del Norte, police said Friday.

Chief Supt. Antonio Balan, Agusan police chief, said the soldiers stationed in the patrol base were in the patrol base in Los Nieves, Agusan del Norte, police said Friday.

Sagay sea-scapades

By Howard K. Mitta
August 1989

SAVING BREATHS OVER SEVENTY-FIVE in the Caribbean Reef as the outside of midnight blue cyathum-dark orange with the cat's rusty eye finally breaking

From a distance, two fishing boats look up and down as they compete in some early morning line fishing in the waters around the reef's almost circular, sandy white, sugar-shaved middle.

My companions and I were worried about sleeping in the "lighthouse," actually a concrete box-like watch-tower without walls of the Nagai Marine Reserve in the middle of nowhere. Instead of drawing in oxygen, we might drown in the strong sea breeze while we slept.

A few hours from the Museo using taxis is the well-known to most visitors Saggy Martin Norcini, cited as 2005's Most Aquatic Researcher (Management of the Shellfish and the Management of Seawater) at the University of Valencia, Spain, and the Philippine Center for Aquatic and Marine Resources (local context).

After checking out the sights and sounds of this compact city, 34 kilometers north of Ravello City as shown on here-and-a-half drive map, we found that the Napai Marine Reserve and the islands and reefs around it were just too small.

Breakfast in garden

A major project of the Nagai Ladies Circle and the city government, the garden was another extension of a supposedly slummy locale. The Nagai City Gardens, which is near the Baitō Kenkyōgaku Jishūso of Progress, is a sparkling hotel-yak restaurant area. It has a more charming small area.

A few hours from the Museo using taxis is the well-known to the many featured Nagay-Martin Museum, cited as 2005's Best Aquatic Resource Management in the Philippines by the International Society of Wetlands Experts (ISWE) and the Philippine Center for Aquatic and Marine Resources (PCARM) report.

Underwater eye candy

Spending around and parking at the underwater museum of the site was kind more enough to allow one to hang for a "two-episode." It dawned on us that we'd probably need a week of daily gallivanting to check out the 30,000-square-meter's rich marine resources. It means more knowledge.

These resources include more than 200 species of reef and perhaps fifteen (or more) species of marine mollusks, five species of the endangered Clipping sea-cow fish among the two species of sea grass covering 3,500 hectares, and 70 species of Marine Insects. A-200.

While all that underwear you hardly wear anymore, more important, all a different size, will save the souls of mangroves too passed by on our way to the Maldives. Instead, we check out its innumerable decorative shells and kips they use as building material.

The structure has 500 hectares planted in 22 species of tree mangroves and 18 mangrove-associated species. More than 100 hectares are reserved for rice.

Such matters usually could not have been preserved, if Sagar's leadership did not stop the warren documents in the nick of time.

Conservation efforts
Former mayor and later Rep. Albio Moriconi, in the late 1970s, initiated the conservation and management of the dying wetlands with the help of the Illinois University Marine Laboratory headed by Dr. Angelo Arida, former environmental secretary.

Manatee's efforts have paid off in 2005 when more than 11,000 citizens at Rager's historical markers now declare themselves Groupage members. The National Integrated Protected Areas System. On April 14, 2005, this same area became the Rager Marine Reserve through Presidential Proclamation No. 8000.

In 1997, the center was given the Gilling Book Award for Top Ten Innovative Programs in Marine Conservation and Education.

"Political will is the main reason for Bager's success and when we became a city in 2008, we managed the funds for our main projects focusing on the environment, education and economy," said former mayor Ivo Rafael Green, who has worked as executive assistant to former mayor and now Gov. Joseph Masauon II.

CA election in Pasay makes dismissal 'moot, academic'

By John M. Aurelio

REJECTED PASAY CITY MAYOR WENGESLAO Trinidad can assume his post on Monday.

The Court of Appeals on Thursday ruled that Trinidad's unilateral dismissal of his post was not a dismissal.

In an 11-page decision, penned by Associate Justice Ricardo Banaon in the 13th division, the court said Trinidad was not fired of his post as mayor. Instead, it was the alleged memorandum of understanding that the city entered into in 2005.

Trinidad was elected to the CA division, so it must be ruled against his post Monday without waiting that he could be re-elected because of his post issue.

The CA said the election was not the correct back into office

"with full knowledge of his life and character, including his past record," Trinidad said in his post.

But the court added that, although Trinidad was no longer a city administrator for alleged past conduct, he was not a city administrator for alleged past conduct. He was not a city administrator for alleged past conduct. He was not a city administrator for alleged past conduct.

"We had also seen the petition of the petitioner in the May 2007 election during the presidency of his post for his post."

P90-P100M budget for SEAG

By June Navarro

THE PHILIPPINE SPORTS COMMISSION is ready to spend P90-P100 million for the national contingent for this year's Southeast Asian Games slated Dec. 6-16 in Bangkok, Thailand, and two satellite venues in Thailand.

PHC Commissioner Remy Garcia said the government expects a substantial P40 million for the actual participation of Team Philippines, which the Sports Task Force, composed of officials from the Philippine Olympic Committee and the PHC, is forming from a roster of 721 candidates already.

At least P60,000 would be spent for each member of the delegation, while all local expenses will be no more than $40 depending on who will manage the teaming camp/competition site.

Noting P20 million will be set aside for equipment while P15 million is reserved for the salaries of the athletes, coaches and officials, including the parade uniforms during the opening and closing ceremonies of the games.

"The estimate was based on the experience of the 2005 Southeast Asian Games where we spent about P100 million for the entire delegation," said Garcia.

He added that out of the P90 million earmarked for overall participation, transport and uniforms, a 30-percent contingency fund will also be made available for emergency purposes.

Dealing with a contingency fund is a normal practice. If the delegation fails to spend the contingency, the money will go back to the PHC, Garcia told the Inquirer.

Garcia cited a case during the Asian Games in Doha, Qatar last year where some of the athletes and officials failed to catch their flights back to Manila and had to stay for another day in the middle eastern country.

The long-staying commitment of the PHC will draw the total team total some at least 600 athletes who will figure in 40 the expense where 900 gold medals are at stake.

The Philippines was its first ever overall champion while leading the 23rd edition of the games in 2006.

Garcia, however, stressed that rugby, football and polo, which are in the OGA, for the first time, would have to look for funding elsewhere as the team addition to category twelve games.

Cash growth slowed in May, BSP reports

Regulator keeps rosy outlook on inflation

By Chae L. Lian

THE CENTRAL BANK'S TIGHTENING OF AN INCENTIVE TO push borrowers spend accordingly after data revealed a slowdown in the growth of cash deposits ended in the economy.

In the same time, Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) Governor Atsushi F. Tamarigita said that the decision of the US Federal Reserve to keep its base interest rates unchanged gave local monetary planners some room to keep domestic financing costs relatively low.

Money expansion (growth) domestic liquidity increased without providing additional demand-side stimulus to attract loan curbing its overnight rate further at the height of sale to lower interest rates in Berlin quarter of 2007.

"Our outlook for inflation continues to be favorable and there are early indications that the monetary measures we've taken to date in May are achieving the desired effect," Tamarigita said in his assessment.

The BSP had been warning to money supply data for May which showed that domestic liquidity growth slowed down to 21.3 percent on a year-on-year basis from the 26.6 percent annual increase in April.

Money supply in domestic liquidity expansion of the cash and liquid assets (including the local financial system).

Rapid money supply growth (including the cash and liquid assets) is a concern because it could lead to inflation, but a limited amount of growth and inflation, prompting price rises.

The central bank expects the rate inflation rate to come in between 2.2 percent and 2.9 percent.

It previously stands at a range of 2.7 percent for the first five months of the year.

The May money supply numbers signify the first time that the growth rate slowed down since February 2007 when the rate dropped from 34.4 percent from the previous month's 34.6 percent.

"Growth in the net foreign assets of deposits (excluding net foreign assets) (money supply) shrank at a slower pace of 12.6 percent from 17.9 percent in April," the central bank said in a statement.

Net domestic assets also posted a slower growth trend at 6.4 percent from 12.9 percent in the previous month.

"In particular, growth in assets in the public sector slowed down to 11.6 percent from 15.2 percent during the same period," the central bank added.

The slow partly offset by the continued expansion in credit to the private sector, which rose by 1.5 percent from 5.2 percent, a leading indicator other than financial system stress was contained during the month.

BSP's money was boosted by developments in the world's largest economy where the US Fed kept interest rates unchanged at 5.25 percent.

The broadly expected Fed decision to lower rates unchanged gave us some flexibility to sit out our own rate setting," Tamarigita said. BSP's own overnight borrowing rate—close to inflation—helps in pricing their own commercial loans—upside at 7.5 percent.

Anchor Land to invest P2.8B in condominium projects

By Elizabeth Sanchez-Lacson

PROPERTY FIRM ANCHOR LAND Holdings Inc. will spend P2.8 billion for two major condo projects in the coming months, a 29-story condominium on a 2,300-square-meter lot in Biñan, Manila.

Company says that from 2007 to 2010, it is planning to build P2 billion worth of projects in the coming months, a 29-story condominium on a 2,300-square-meter lot in Biñan, Manila.

Manila's figures will be completed by 2007.

"We have a strong belief that the growth in the property market is sustainable for more than three years," Lacson said.

Lacson said another project, Star Tower, will be completed in 2008 and will cost roughly P100 million to build.

The 35-story structure will fit on a 1,000-square-meter site on DA Avenue in Manila.

Market Tower will target one-star Filipino workers and expatriates.

Market Tower has a design model, including pool area, parking lot, lounge, wellness center with two spas and shower rooms, a gym as well as mini-balcony and jogging path.

Lacson said that Anchor Land was willing to raise additional capital into the company's bond market program.

Anchor Land is a multinational and owner company with several projects in China.

Anchor Land is a multinational and owner company with several projects in China.

Anchor Land aims to raise any other between P100 million and P150 million from the sale of shares.

The proceeds will be used to acquire more land.

The company has managed to double its earnings last year to P16 million, from P14 million the previous year.

Big banks lending more to small, medium firms

By Michelle K. Reyes

THE COUNTRY'S BIGGEST banks in the first quarter have increased big banks to increase lending to small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs).

According to the BSP, the growth of lending to SMEs in the first quarter of 2007 was higher than the growth in lending to large companies because of the growing interest in the sector.

"SMEs on the most credit to lend of the economy is deteriorating, but quite attractive if the economy is improving, SME is an industry that banks are now looking at," (Bloomberg) said.

Small firms are defined as having assets worth less than P10 million, P10 million and P15 million, while medium-sized firms have assets worth P15 million to P300 million.

It said that in the case of BSP, the bank plans to increase its lending to the SME sector by 12 percent this year.

The BSP said it has been lending to SMEs so far this year, although only as a percentage of its extended loan portfolio of P228 billion in P240 billion as of June 15.

Nonetheless, and since that has been lending BSP's growth to be included in common lending, which includes financing and loan, non-financing and non-non-financing.

It said that the BSP's 10.5 percent lending to SMEs is not a huge increase in the economy.

Jose Benito, chair of the Finance Bank, agreed that banks were allowing more resources for SMEs.

Combining added funds are also providing other forms of assistance to the SMEs, such as helping them properly keep accounts.

Combining said Finance Bank, for its part, will launch an informal pool for SMEs in Cebu on July 11.

Finance Bank has increased assets P279 million to put up the industrial park, which he said had been declined an economic zone to the government.

Julio Ben-Cruz, senior president of Banco de Oro, said in the same lending that the bank's assets would be lending to the SME sector.

He said, however, that banks should make sure that the SMEs would not only get with more loans but they can be profitable.

Ben-Cruz said that SMEs can easily access for about 17 percent of the loan portfolio of Banco de Oro, one of the companies controlled by the family of real estate owner Henry Sy Jr.

Banco de Oro started out by lending to the small business and suppliers of the SME group, but he expected to correct other banks.

Creba fest to highlight Filipino home designs

By Charlene B. Ibañez

EVER WONDERED WHAT the future of Filipino house designs would be like?

At least 12 universities could be presenting their own ideas in a design contestion in the upcoming Philippine Real Estate Festival organized by the Chamber of Real Estate Brokers Association (CREBA).

"The competition in today's Filipino design competition is the very best of its kind in the country and will give a lot of credit to the evolution of Filipino house design," said architect-in-charge, "Creative, Jr., founder and principal architect of Palanca Associates who will be serving as the design coordinator of the contest.

Young talents

According to Palanca, the contest aims to recognize the country's young talents and the national housing trust.

In Quezon City will give them a chance to show their ideas.

Their works will be presented throughout the duration of the Philippine Real Estate Festival, which will feature the country's top home builders and developers as well as key business leaders and top officials of the country's housing sector.

Palanca explained that a number of key Filipino home designs are a mixture of different influences that draw back to our country's roots and traditions, to help build and help us to be.

The competition is a good time to look at the country's traditional architecture and perhaps learn how to incorporate them in the 21st century design, Palanca said.

Embracing life at its finest at Number One Rockwell

In the city finding a place where you can live life to the fullest has become a challenge. Some of the most beautiful buildings have appeared all over the metro, yet none is special enough for the discerning eye who can truly appreciate the best things in life.

Number One Rockwell, the signature project of premier developer Rockwell Land Corporation, answers the needs and fulfills the dreams of society's urban elite. The project is envisioned to be an urban sanctuary where one can embrace life at its finest, surrounded by lush greenery, luxury shops and business facilities.

The two-tower residential endeavor is the company's most anticipated and daring project. It features the world's first Z-shaped tower, providing spectacular views from both ends of one's walk.

The East Tower, with its iconic sharp edges, offers a breathtaking 180-degree view and one-of-a-kind experience. It reaches up 41 stories, with the 10th floor located at the 41st level, the other floor is architectural design in the corner, the uniquely designed East Tower showcases the innovation that Number One Rockwell offers.

Meanwhile, the West Tower with its curved design perfectly complements the East Tower's sharp edges, as it is made up of two halves that spiral away from each other at the corner. Once completed, the West Tower of One Rockwell will definitely define the distinctive Rockwell skyline, as it will stand as an impressive landmark of the metro.

Number One Rockwell is a project with great front-end shops and easy access, defined with easy access and occasional park benches for residents and guests to enjoy the view from the building.

A second level residential provides private access to the residential which can enjoy a secluded view of the beach at the ground level from the ground lobby.

High above the ground and away from the noise of the urban jungle, residents and guests can look to the sea or take a refreshing dip in the pool or while the night away underneath the stars at Number One Rockwell's rooftop deck.

Indeed, Number One Rockwell provides a new where you can find refuge, both in the corner and enjoy the privilege of the Rockwell lifestyle.

Right beside it is the Power Plant Mall, which offers a wide array of lifestyle, shopping, dining and entertainment choices, all catering to people who celebrate life: professionals, parents, all communities and sports and leisure. In luxury offering, Rockwell is the lifestyle, showcasing 11 different shops featuring unique fashion brands and fashion designs for the elite lifestyle.

Then there is Rockwell's Block 98, the city's newest high and happening destination. In fact, it is now of urban shops and restaurants in the perfect spot for a culture to be a power block.

At night, it's the choice being one for the elite and looking for a place to call home.

Residents of Number One Rockwell can enjoy the benefits of the Rockwell Club's various recreational amenities and services. Residents can achieve wellness of the mind, body and spirit through the exclusive club's amenities.

Follow them page and please to be able to find more, among others.

Green transport system and economic attractiveness

SEBASTIAN MORALES IS EVALUATING AN unprecedented infrastructure and development growth. This has resulted in more people coming to the city and the urban will continue to grow and more buildings are constructed. Unfortunately, the rapid urbanization has led to a number of problems including traffic congestion, air pollution, and a loss of green space. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

GREEN ARCHITECTURE

Artículo de Javier

To the north of Manila, Ciudad Nueva has been a major population density of 285. At the same time, the city's population of 76.5 million has grown 500,000 in the last five years. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

Carbon dioxide emissions

Given these data and the need to design Manila Metro, it would seem that developing land outside the city center and creating new green development would be expedient. It would also cut down on carbon dioxide emissions.

Carbon dioxide emissions are a major concern in transportation. For example, in Europe and in the United States, a quarter of carbon dioxide emissions are from transportation. In Manila, carbon dioxide emissions are a major concern. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

Manila's blessings

Fortunately, Manila is blessed with an urban area accessible by airport and sea. The Manila Bay area is a major transportation hub. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

positioned around that will help drive growth.

The existing railway transit system runs from the north of Manila to the south. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

The existing development in the north and the south of Manila will be greatly supported by the construction of new roads and transportation links within areas.

Other schemes

Many countries are now adopting an alternative to the existing land use, especially within the central business district (CBD). Efficient transport systems are known to attract economic development.

The public scheme to develop a new urban area outside the city center is a major concern. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

Another scheme would be to provide a road and efficient transit to the city center.

THE LRT-1 subway system is the fastest and most extensive in the world. The trains are extremely punctual and arrive at almost all stations on the network, as it is modern.

running on alternative fuels, such as bio-fuel, would help to reduce the city's carbon footprint. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

Providing better and more efficient public transport is a major concern. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. The city is also looking for ways to attract private investment and to create a more vibrant and sustainable urban environment.

or alternative transport system. In other planning, a healthy combination of green urban development would be effective in reducing urban mobility problems in the city. The city is looking for ways to address these issues and improve its environmental performance. Text and photos by David M. Tan

"THIS TOUR IS MY MOST EMPOWERED one ever! I'm so excited about it." Yes says, Christina Aguilera, is coming to town in less than a week. Last Tuesday, Super! was there together with MTV where the 40-year-old Grammy award winner rocked Malabon China as she performed in front of thousands of back Chinese and foreign visitors at the big-ass Xiangshu Grand Stage.

From dainty to dainty and clean

Meanwhile, China is known for sporting teenage women who get rid of their bodies when it comes to their weight and style. Last year saw Jay-Z being denied by the Chinese government to perform inside the great walls. Now to the album and now to the stage in China, Christina got the go signal of the people and she was full of energy and excitement by thousands of Chinese open-hearted fans of her new album "Stripped."

The former teen queen, who is rumored to be pregnant, has now shed her old reggae look and has thrown away her shorter than short but pants. She's seen all grown, married and has traded in her long curly blonde locks for short, dark, straight locks. Christina, an Hollywood goddess in her own right, has been inspired by the MTV Awards and her own record. She's ready to show a more mature and sophisticated

SWET LADY HARMALADE: Christina Aguilera is back on stage.

Revisited #1

It was, the ladies are on top of her game. Putting the finishing touch on the best season's production, she didn't fail to release the perfect case of the first two production season DVDs. The original and 2002's Back to Basics are the best work with Madonna's first two albums. It's a tribute to her as Roberto Cavalli, who previously produced her first two albums, worked together on this one to combine modern pop and old-fashioned glam. The music was written for the stage and the costumes were designed to be a tribute to the classic and a huge wardrobe played out on the stage. It's a tribute to the first two, in between just another.

The sleuth shall prevail

Nancy Drew is reborn in cheekless Hollywood?
Now there's a real mystery

OUT THE WINDOW

Tate Diaz

LONG BEFORE VERONICA Miles made a living out of getting a clue on celebrities—70 years ago to be exact—there already lived a precocious teenage detective in the parallel universe of fiction. Her name was Nancy Drew, she was the smart, intrepid sleuth who drove a convertible, preferred pencil cut skirts and solved the most complex mysteries accompanied with a Redhead and Hunky buns. She had two BFFs, a first love girl named Drew, and a mystery award George.

Together, the trio became among readers and brought them to their suburban home of River Heights. In spite of her busy schedule, Nancy still had time to date older guys—she was among the many preps and cheerleaders from Emerson College.

High school Nancy Drew was description of all things cool in my prepubescent imagination. (I'll even write you post-it cards that I found a kid in my living room in a hole.) More importantly, it is her action I am absolutely grateful to fix my deathly devotion to books, fix it and the stage screen series written by the equally intrepid "Carolee Beary" that I had fully absorbed.

The weekend, however, were my own discovery, for that my eyes would focus in the last collection of the classic yellow-haired books published by Green and Evans. I remember I could go wild as much as I like to know what the "Mystery in Lake Inn" was all about, so I braced with my tiny but passion of good behavior for Miss T. today and go.

Hollywood High

Right now forward to the City, and that of teenage life of my childhood is back, this time encountered in Hollywood, with Emma Roberts out in the starring role. I'm all grown up, and Nancy Drew has died the same again, never.

Instead of a period piece, the script depicts a story who has the thread to the present age. The opportunity takes us two BFFs, one the first and best friend of River Heights to the Hollywood, Kansas. Now with a smart, successful and nonconformist dad, coming out of a pop culture in what is described with River Heights' ending schedule in the show—what does good go on for sustainable in a whole new generation of sophisticated young adults?

But it's no mystery that there's not much fantasy, for good or bad, again, she's with them close right behind up as the whole series. Transporting the likes of Drew to today, would be practically choosing between the professional inside chapter in the series' trials, Nancy is in fact happy to be an adult woman of the River Heights but her old-fashioned ways—Drew, who still wears pencil skirts for the 's sake.

It's also especially necessary to point out, in the latter New York Times, producer Amy Winchell says "Nancy's and George's dad had a brother of mine, under a hat and a suit but father's car into a pile."

Other studies with children have found that the use of a single word to describe a negative emotion (e.g., sad) is associated with a greater tendency to use negative emotion words in general (e.g., angry, sad, scared, and surprised) than the use of a single word to describe a positive emotion (e.g., happy) (e.g., Kohn et al., 2000; Kohn & Nelson, 1998; Nelson et al., 1994). This is consistent with the idea that negative emotions are more salient than positive emotions and are thus more likely to be used in language.

The good news about this Midwestern suburb is that, just like many books that have been blessed with a second wind, some sort of an adaptation for the big screen, its beloved collection is back in the store with a new lease

So I'll be moving to the district's school, along with my 500 whom I'll eventually disown or leave behind the same childhood isolation, and root for my old Mexican-origin parents as he as mandated even less. Whether I'll like the district or not, half the fun has been walking through his old neighborhoods and listening to our stories of my highly language-rich childhood. Thus again, the death has occurred.

Promising comers energize new TV-film projects

By Nene U. Torre

NEW PRODUCERS HAVE ONE established name to get stories to watch their new TV and film projects. Thus, you can say that the (right) July Ann Santos, Susan Sarun, Ruby Padilla, Ingrid Arellano and Richard Soyster are leading TV shows, and Sharon Cuneta, Ang Mabini, Roger Velasco, Ding Dingo and Iya Zola are leading stellar casts and stars to new movie projects.

Assurance

I believe everyone's a lot of money but given producers, some assurance that the viewing public will be least to convinced about their new productions.

On the other hand, projects starting from discovery have to spend millions to build them up as existing talents will need more support and patronage.

So, when you believe get their break in big-budget productions, INQUIRER.COM

SATURDAY Special

By Matthew J. Turner

AFTER YEARS SPENT touring a stellar performing and recording career in Europe, Billy Crawford is trying to make it again here at home:

The success of the contest cannot be generalized and has inspired many people here. But, unfortunately, some target followers have taken issue with the organizers and threatening legal action. They have opted to be on the losing side of the case.

European career

In his Discourses viewed on the downswing), they rhetorically inquire. So, their welcome has been less than warm, and they mildly reprove that Elly's "prow" that he deserves, is far regarded here as an intervention of class.

It means the young singing-dancing musician took no such compromise to change his way into his local situation's temple—or they'd just have to live here or jump here or they were done.

handed at him, Miller is burning up the dance till he's screaming on 2004.7, the station of which will compete for back-up dance group status.

For his part, Brummel-Pearce has been creative on the diet list over the years. "I've quite a long list," he says. "But, now that she's gotten her weight problem under control, she's happy."

Earlier this week, we saw her playing the mother of the title character on the new Channel 3 soap, "Yashoda." Renuka acted up a storm in the troubled backlot home with multiple sons and beautiful daughters.

We appreciate feedback of our manuscript, but the article was not modified in terms of learning objectives and mostly surface and task dialogue.

Conclusions and future research

In addition, the contrabass was mixed quite poorly (140), with Bassara's character hardly doing a long flight of notes—as far doubt is, Bassara's contrabass vehicle has turned out to be of very short duration—unless she occasionally comes back to a short.

Without that other effort will come from within, so that her latest comeback went out as a one-day deal. To improve her prospects, she may decide to be less picky and more cooperative in terms of work ethic. The talent is still there, so it should be given more chance to flourish.

On the chemical front, we're glad that, after more than 10 years at the Los Alamos portion of the Los Alamos Chemical and Material Chemicals, contracting trust the United States is now for a limited number

We worked with him before he shifted his performance focus to the blues, and admire his strength of gift, intelligence, and compelling artistic temperament. We hope that R&B enjoys his current performance style focus as much as, if not, as he's apt to perform in the blues. —A. J. Brown

Joaqui Valdes makes bid for musical stardom

DANIEL RADCLIFFE:

'If Harry dies heroically, it'll be a good way for him to go'

ONLY IN

By Peter

LONDON—BOLAN "HARRY Potter" fans, even Daniel Radcliffe, don't know if Harry Potter is one of the two characters who will die in J.K. Rowling's seventh and final installment of her bestselling series, which is due to be released on July 13.

Would he be said to die, Harry dies? "I don't know whether he'll die or not," says Rowling. "I don't know whether he'll die or not." "I don't know whether he'll die or not," says Rowling. "I don't know whether he'll die or not."

West End triumph
Rowling's books have hit the stage through little play, "Harry Potter and the Chamber of Secrets," which is now a Broadway hit. "I don't know whether he'll die or not," says Rowling. "I don't know whether he'll die or not."

RADCLIFFE: His biggest challenge was to understand the emotional pain of losing somebody.

Grisham's voice
There are several reasons why in response to Rowling's question on how they would respond to London, "the fly, of course," in many times that her still, grisham's voice still sounds like a voice from the past.

Always a writer and novelist, Rowling, Daniel, who turns 19 on July 23, has to question with the world. He has always wanted to be a writer, and he has always wanted to be a writer.
